To all Parents/Carers,

Yes, your eyes do not deceive you, there was a T-Rex in school yesterday!

He or she (we're not sure) was present at two assemblies in the morning and then did an ace green screen session with the children in Y5 and Y6. For more great photos and videos check out our Twitter feed on the homepage of the website!

Middle left we have children in Y1 building some junkbox models. Can you guess what they were making and can you guess which book they were reading (clue: it came to tea and ate everything!)?

Bottom left there was another special visitor in school and that was Joshua Seigal. He is a renowned poet and he popped in to do a workshop with the Y3 and Y4 children. Expect to read some amazing poetry over the coming weeks!

In other news, just a bit of feedback about our two most recent surveys. The first one, about Adult Learning Services, had nearly 50 responses so now we have a good sense of what classes/sessions parents/carers would like to attend and what days/times are most appropriate. We haven't fully decided anything yet but it is looking likely that our first block of six sessions will be about Health/Wellbeing, on a Wednesday, from 7pm – 9pm – beginning on the 16th November. More details to follow after half term.

And the results of our other survey told us that the majority of families are happy for wellies to be redistributed so we will get onto that when we get back. It told us a few other things too so we will look to act on those as soon as possible.

And finally, certificates and stickers were handed out today for attendance. 100% got a sticker and a certificate and 98 or 99% got a sticker. Well done everyone!

Have a restful break
