Care Curiosity Determination

Dear Parents/Carers,

Quite a bit to update you on today! First up, our new trees have arrived (well half of them anyway). Some time ago we put in a bid for some new trees – not saplings or baby trees – proper big ones!! It's taken a while but they're finally here (see above). Next week we will be planting them in the sensory/gardening area so I'll keep you posted.

Next up, take a look at how much the new classroom has progressed! I honestly think the speed at which they are working is a direct result of so many children peering through the fence and asking them when it will be finished!! So many of them have taken an interest in what is happening and how it is being built – it's great to see 😊

Last up, yes, Tuck Shop is back with a new and even more willing bunch of volunteers! I have to say, given how little time they have been given to get organised and arrange a rota/stock, they have been amazing! Most snacks on offer will be in the region of 20 or 30p and it will run from Monday to Thursday. Before I sign off, one last plug for the Quiz Night (with all funds going to team Frank)! Hopefully see you there!

Have a good weekend
Mr I. Johnson
