9/06/2023

To all Parents/Carers,

I can't actually believe we are in the final half term of 2022/23 – where has that year gone to! I hope you had a restful week and enjoyed the bit of sunshine.

First up, top left, we have children in Y3 learning about different cultures and traditions. Here they are making German clothing out of recycled materials! They look very happy in their new outfits!

Middle left, we have children in Y5 showing very high levels of determination in their brass lessons. In preparation for their upcoming concert, they have been practicing in the hall with their teacher. If it is anything like the last concert then we are in for an absolute treat!

Next, we have a child in Y2 taking a great deal of care with the editing and improving of her work. Some children find this part of their writing quite difficult (my own son is very similar) as when they have finished and put their pen/pencil – they have finished! So we are working hard in school to help the children understand how important this is and how it helps to make a piece of writing better.

And finally, some incredibly high levels curiosity flowing around FS2 as they waited for their dinosaur egg to hatch over the holidays (called Marshmallow)! In their classroom they have a small glass chamber which is called the curiosity box. This week a dinosaur, next week it could be something else!

In other news, the weather is getting quite hot over the next week so plenty of suntan cream, hats and water in school please!

Enjoy your weekend,

Mr I. Johnson
